A California Girl Writes of the Wonderful Thing She Saw at Night.

It was very dim last night and as I hurried home from the factory the street lamps seemed brighter than usual. I said I hurried; yes, I almost ran. I saw nothing to frighten me, yet my fear of the darkness was irresistible.

On turning down our dingy street I paused a moment for breath. As I did so I heard a whirring sound as of wind rushing suddenly and swiftly around a corner. Then I heard it again and again. I looked about, but saw not the cause of it. Surely it wasn't the wind, for the trees were standing still—as still as the stone statues across the street. Then again I heard the same queer sounds.

In my amazement I looked toward the sky. Probably I thought that it could solve the mystery. Instead of seeing its usual blue color I saw it to be of a purple hue. How beautiful it did look, so royal, so stately!

As I turned around I saw a white object rising slowly above the tree tops. There seemed to be something black on it, but I could not tell what it was. Then it sank from view again. Instead of being frightened I was entranced with the purple sky and funny airship.

When I again looked toward the place where I had last seen this queer affair, it was rising gradually in the air. It drew nearer, giving me a fine chance to see it. It was long, round and hollow. I distinguished the black figure to be a man, who sat in the center and guided it.

It circled above me, shot through the air with lightning speed, and then again it would pause, as if to rest. I saw something else too. It had the shape of a coil, with one end flattened and hanging down. It looked as if it were made of fire. Not only did it circle in the air, but it followed the airship constantly.

Then, almost too quickly to be seen, it swooped down upon this aerial conveyance. That was the last I saw of it, but it had done its work. Instantly the airship began to fall, fall, till it reached the earth. Not with a crash and a bang did it touch, but as if it had been a feather.

I hurried to the spot, and what did I see? I saw the man only. He was dead. He was about three feet long and was wrinkled and shriveled.

The next thing I remember was that I was lying on my own bed. This, of course, is not a true story. It is only what I dreamed the night before last. —Bertha G. Allen in San Francisco Call.

Edward of York and His Sister.

He may be Edward VIII, king of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India, and his sister will be the princess royal of England.

A Tiny Girl's Plans.

If no one ever marries me—
And I don't see why they should—
For nurse says I'm not pretty,
And I'm seldom very good—

If no one ever marries me,
I shan't mind very much.
I shall buy a squirrel in a cage
And a little rabbit hutch.

I shall have a cottage near a wood
And a pony all my own.
And a little lamb quite clean and tame
That I can take to town.

And when I'm getting really old—
At twenty-eight or nine—
I shall buy a little orphan girl
And bring her up as mine.

—Irene Alma Tadema.

Factories That Make Only Girdles.

"The Little Japanese at Home" is the title of an article in St. Nicholas.

The author says:
The child's obi, or girdle, is at first narrower than her mother's, but is made wider and longer as she grows older. Sometimes it is a foot broad.

There are factories devoted exclusively to obi weaving, and masterpieces of beauty and elegance are produced. It is wound around the waist and made into a large butterfly bow in the back, the loops of which are for state occasions fastened up to the shoulders, while the wide ends float gracefully over the hips.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State and the line of the C. P. R. to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advanced, to cooperate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the depot at the C. P. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha for exhibition, and to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description could be given. The Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

ABOUT VOLUNTEERS

Soon after the United States declared that a state of war existed between the country and Spain, the President, in accordance with the Act of Congress, issued a call for 125,000 volunteers. The apportionment of each State was made on the basis of population, and while some States, Nevada for instance, promptly furnished more than its quota, other States have not yet completed its quota. Now a second call has been issued by the President for 75,000 men, and though the apportionment to the States under this call has been made it has not been given to the public.

Under the first call some States were permitted to furnish a greater number of volunteers than they were entitled to on the basis of population. Under the second call it is proposed by the War Department to remedy the inequality as far as practicable, therefore, States which furnished more than their quota under the first call will be credited with the excess in the second call.

The President desires that the regiments organized in States under the first call and which have not yet been completed, shall be recruited up to their full strength before the organization of new regiments is attempted under the second call. If this policy is carried into effect by the War Department the volunteer regiments which comprise only five or six hundred men will have to be filled from the States in which those regiments were organized or by volunteers from other States before the organization of new regiments will be authorized under the second call. Some of the infantry regiments have less than 600 men, though they are composed of a dozen companies and have as many commissioned officers as a full regiment of twice that number. States, therefore, which furnish five or six regiments of 550 or 600 men each, will have as many commissioned officers as other States whose regiments are filled to the maximum of 1200 men each. This is unfair and to prevent it regiments under the first call have to be filled to the maximum strength before new regiments from the same State are mustered into the service.

THE CORPORATION TAX DEFEATED.

A Senate amendment to the War Revenue bill proposed to tax corporations. This amendment to the bill passed by the House of Representatives was proposed by the Democrats of the Senate Finance Committee. It was approved by Senator Jones of Nevada and, as he holds the balance of power on the committee it was reported favorably by the majority. In open session in the Senate it was discussed at length and defeated, all the gold Republicans and gold Democrats as well as Wolcott of Colorado and Kyle of South Dakota voting against it. The corporations from the gold syndicate down were up in arms against the amendment to tax them for war purposes and they succeeded in defeating the amendment.

In this connection it is suggested to those of our contemporaries who are raising the cry that the Nevada delegation in Congress is owned by the corporations, to look at the year and name in the Senate on the proposition to tax corporations and give the result of their observations to their readers. They will find that our Senators voted for the tax and that their votes are so recorded in the Congressional Record. The knowledge thus acquired may not induce them to change their cry, but if they publish the facts their readers may be disposed to ask why our Senators should advocate and vote for a bill to tax corporations, against the wishes of the corporations, if they (the Senators) are owned by the corporations?

Old newspapers for sale at JOURNAL office.

Advised from Havana to Cape Haylen yesterday stated that since 2 o'clock in the afternoon the American fleet had been bombarding the shore batteries at the entrance to Santiago harbor. At 3:45 the cannonading became less heavy against the batteries and seemed to be directed to the locality where the Spanish fleet lay. At 5 o'clock it was reported that Schley had demolished the Spanish land batteries and had entered the harbor and was engaged in a close conflict with the Spanish fleet. Later it was claimed that the Americans had gained a victory with small loss of life. Two of the American vessels caught fire during the engagement, but the damage was comparatively slight.

The JOURNAL wired for a special at result of fight and received the following at midnight:

"Nothing definite from Schley. Navy Department have no advice and disregard the story of bombardment and fight."

Four hundred men with a pack train and a large quantity of arms and ammunition from the United States was landed 25 miles east of Havana. The invading force was received by Generals Foy and Rojas and 1500 armed insurgents. The Cubans welcomed the new comers with national airs.

A hot exchange of dispatches has occurred between Commodore Schley and the Navy Department in the last thirty-six hours and it is expected that an important movement is on hand.

Admiral Camara's fleet has been delayed at Cadiz owing to defects being discovered in the torpedo boats.

B. F. Leste,

The Underwriter's Chair.
"I see in the windows of undertaking shops," said Mr. Staybolt, "a placard which says that campstools and folding chairs are to hire there, delivered by express wagon. I infer from this that chairs must be hired out for other than funeral purposes, for festive occasions, in fact, as indeed I know of no reason why they should not be."

"But they must lead a varied life, the chairs—funeral one day and wedding, it may be, the next. They know when they start where they're going—that is, they know the nature of the occasion. They can tell that by the wagon they go in. If when they are carried out they find themselves put into the black wagon of the undertaker, they know it's a funeral they're going to. If they are put into just a plain, ordinary delivery wagon, they know that they are going to a wedding or a party or some gathering of more or less gaiety, but they cannot tell what will happen next."

"Well, I don't know that there's anything so very remarkable about this after all. The experience of the chairs is like that of the people who sit on them. They have their days of smiles and their days of tears."—New York Sun.

Her Impressions of Angels.

The wife of a well known senator took her little daughter, a 4-year-old daisel, to a matinee once to see "Jack and the Beanstalk." A week or so afterward she was discovered prouetting and lifting her petticoats before a cheval glass. Her father reproved her and told her it wasn't a pretty way to do.

"Why," said the child, "I saw the angels do it."
"The angels!" exclaimed her father.
"Why, where?"
"When mamma and I went to heaven that day," said the child.
The father explained that the fancied heaven was only the theater. The little girl's face fell.
"And wasn't they angels?" she asked.
"No," said the father; "they were just girls."
The child put on an air of intense disgust.
"Well," she said, "I think they ought to be taken home and spanked, 'cause they wasn't dressed any more than angels."—Lewiston Journal.

ORATION.

Delivered as a Part of the Odd Fellows Memorial Ceremonies on May 30th, 1898, at Reno, Nev., by the Hon. J. W. Wright of Salt Lake City, Editor of a General Fraternal Journal and a deputy Supreme Commander of the Order of the Macabees.

Odd Fellowship has long since passed beyond its experimental stage. For almost eight decades, or four-fifths of a century it has in this country been purifying and beautifying its precepts, elevating and ennobling its practice and making itself worthy of the love and loyalty of its members and of the trust and confidence of all people throughout this great Republic. Its banner was first unfurled to the liberty-loving and sun-kissed breezes of the United States on the 26th day of April, 1819, and since that time it has become one of the greatest of all the social and benevolent organizations which have ever found home upon the American continent.

It is thought that its founder, Brother Wilsey, deemed it merely a humane institution, its principal "objects being to relieve the brethren, bury the dead and care for the widow and orphan." But gradually its aims have been broadened, and there has been infused into its lectures and ritualistic teachings "much moral and (unsectarian) religious instruction," and year after year "these principles have been increased, and deepened and strengthened until its beneficial and relief measures," important, far-reaching and characteristic in themselves, "from being merely ends, have become the exalted means to a higher and greater end—to improve and cultivate the character of man—to imbue him with a higher conception of his capabilities for good—to enlighten his mind—to enlarge the sphere of his affections and thus lead him to the cultivation of the true fraternal relation designed for him by the Great Author of his being.

Brother Wilsey planted the seed and cultivated the tree. It bore fruit better and richer than he had anticipated. "He builded better than he knew." But as founder and architect he dwelt within the temple which he had reared for far more limited objects. His cherished aims and details were all retained, but directed far beyond the merely social and physical to the moral and spiritual; to lift its members up to their proper position; to hold man to a strict standard of duty; to impress him with the value of character among his fellows and to lead him to a true appreciation of his whole duty, whether to his God, to himself or to his fellow man."

As an institution among men, our great and beloved Order has ever sought to enlarge and ennoble its aims, is now directing its course in accordance with the highest ideals of social and moral rectitude, and is destined, as we believe, to keep abreast of advancing thought for the highest welfare of the people as the passing years shall roll up the scroll of time wherein the history of the race shall have been recorded. The sources of its teachings, its principles and its inspiration is that God-given philosophy proclaimed to man by the Divine Son of the Creator and Ruler of the universe, during His brief sojourn as one among the inhabitants of earth—"The Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man."

There never has been a period when the beauty and power of this philosophy have been more impressively felt and more vividly realized by men than at the present time. Distress and suffering have always been in the world, but, somehow, man is coming more and more to look upon his fellowmen as his brothers. To perform the beautiful ceremony of scattering flowers upon the graves of the departed is but to proclaim to the world that we would keep green the memory of our brothers who have passed over the silent river, and shed perfume upon all that was good and noble in their lives, while we spread the mantle of sweet charity over all that was questionable. But our Order teaches more than this. It teaches our duty to the living. It proclaims the pure doctrine of justice; it invests the gentle influences of mercy and it cherishes the restful exercise of love, enforcing upon our minds the thought that justice begets justice, mercy begets mercy and love begets love. Visiting and caring for the sick, sorrowing and distressed of its membership, burying the dead, rendering substantial aid to the widows and educating the orphans of its departed members, are the common and daily ministrations of the Order. It has erected, in many of its jurisdictions, homes for its disabled, indigent and superannuated members, where they can have tender and watchful care during their declining years. Millions of dollars are annually collected and expended by the Order in fulfillment of its self-imposed duties for the welfare of its membership and of the families of members.

In the matter of attending to the business of the Order, each of the many thousand lodges affords a means of general instruction and special education to its members whose value is beyond estimation. Would a man, and especially the young man, utilize all the powers of his being and make himself useful by becoming a fluent, entertaining and instructive, extemporaneous speaker, let him join some good lodge of this Order, attend its meetings, enter into its discussions and take an intelligent part in the transactions of its business. If he would study and master the beautiful and accomplished art of parliamentary law, both in theory and practice, let him become an active, working and energetic Odd Fellow. If he would undo bad habits, formed during the unguarded moments of his life, let him as an Odd Fellow, study and put into practice the moral teachings of the Order, let him memorize its profound and impressive lectures, let him become a teacher of the principles of Odd Fellowship, and he will find that he has a mind, that he has a character, that he has a manhood capable of improvement and worthy of cultivation.

Again, the Order teaches loyalty—loyalty to every noble principle, loyalty to home and friends, loyalty to country, country's laws and country's flag. No man can be an Odd Fellow in spirit and in truth, without at the same time being a patriotic and loyal citizen. The Order is proud of the distinguished privileges implied in the title, "A citizen of the United States of America." It is proud of the sturdy young men of the nation, many of whom are among its membership, who are ever ready to take up arms in defense of the grand old flag on whose starry face we read the mystic story of liberty as written there with the blood of our fathers, a liberty vouchsafed through their suffering and their valor to us, to our children and our children's children. And in the name of the noble Order we represent in these memorial services today, God grant that we as a nation shall never rest satisfied till the language of human liberty shall be engraved in letters of living light upon every flag of every nation and every tribe upon this fair old earth.

Such, my friends, is the great Order of Odd Fellowship. Grandly noble, patriotic and true, standing, as it were, upon the high promontory of man's noblest and loftiest hopes, like a mighty beacon, lighting the darkened pathway of the race in its efforts to reach a higher and still higher civilization.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

Illinoisans Who Want to go to War as Nevadans.

The Governor has received the following generous offer:

KEWANEE, Ill., May 27, 1898.
Governor of the State of Nevada, Carson City.—Dear Sir: We have 107 men, strong and healthy, who want to go to war. We have passed the preliminary examination and are fairly well drilled, but cannot get in in our own State because of our quota being filled. Can you use us? If necessary will pay our own way to Nevada if you will treat us as Nevada boys after we get there. Awaiting your esteemed reply, I beg to remain,
Yours truly,
O. W. HALL, Captain.

As a number of young men in this State are desirous of having opportunity to face the Spaniards and offer to enlist but cannot do so because Nevada's quota is filled, there is no opening here for the patriotic Illinoisans. As Iowa and some other States had not a few days ago filled their quota under the first call, the Illinois boys might find a chance nearer home than Nevada to get into the service.

THE RECEPTION.

President Stubbs and the Faculty Receive at the University.

The annual reception by the President and Faculty to the graduating classes, the Alumni, the visitors and to all friends of the University, last evening, was largely attended. President and Mrs. Stubbs assisted by the Faculty and the wives of several of the Professors received the guests at the door of Lincoln Hall and all were immediately made to feel at home. There was no set program and no stiff formality. The guests and University people mingled together, passing the time in an exchange of greetings and pleasant conversation. Vocal and instrumental music were enjoyable features and on the whole the reception was in reality, notwithstanding the large number of guests, more like the meeting of friends at the home of a friend, than a formal affair.

Refreshments were served during the evening and all who attended spoke words of the highest praise for President and Mrs. Stubbs.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled upon my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds. I gave it a trial took eight bottles in all. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

WILL CELEBRATE.

The Citizens of Reno Meet With The Wheelmen and Decide to Observe The Glorious Fourth.

On the invitation of the Wheelmen a large number of citizens met at the clubrooms last evening for the purpose of considering the matter of having a good old fashioned Fourth of July celebration this year. Mr. A. C. Bragg called the meeting to order and stated the occasion of the call. Mr. Bragg was then elected Chairman of the meeting and W. Webster, Secretary. It was decided upon motion to appoint a committee of arrangements of fifteen, said committee to be empowered to appoint sub-committees from its own members. The following gentlemen were appointed on such committee:

S. J. Hodgkinson, Henry Riter, H. J. Thyres, Wm. Pinniger, M. Nathan, A. Nelson, F. P. Dann, W. H. McInnis, Thos. Brown, J. A. Fitzgerald, E. C. Leadbetter, C. H. Stoddard, C. H. Coffin, Fred Vorn and Captain Gosse.

Rev. F. Vernon Jones was called upon for a few remarks and the revered gentleman enlivened the meeting and made a number of good suggestions. On motion the Reverend gentleman was added to the committee. Hon. S. Summerfield, General Turritin and others were called upon and approved of the movement towards the celebration. The meeting then adjourned, The Committee of Arrangements will meet at the call of Chairman Hodgkinson.

Something New and Novel.

Mlle. Fassi, a young danseuse, who has had the baptism of Paris will next week be an aspirant for the applause of our theatre goers. She comes direct from Europe, has youth and good looks to supplement her talents. She has a decided novelty of her own none of her effects electrical and other have yet been seen here. New dances, new electrical and mechanical effects and a new dancer should form an attractive programme. Mlle. Fassi's novelties include pantomime spectacular bicycle dances in which is seen a terrific thunder storm and fork and flash lightning, a down pour of rain, ending with a beautiful rainbow, the only one in the United States. A cupid or love dance in which there is an entirely unique cloud and water display Cupid being enveloped in moving clouds, this dance being done in the air. A Chinese dance with its own appropriate music of the best style, the dancing is the kind that is seen in the aristocratic performances in large Chinese cities. The costume is magnificent. In the Silver dance an entirely new dress material is used made out of solid silver and thus the most gorgeous effects are made possible. The paraphernalia is the largest ever carried by a dancer, fifteen electrical lamps being used besides numerous mechanical effects. In conjunction with the novel dancer is a star vaudeville company all direct from New York; Barney Reynolds, the Dutch comedian. May De Mar, soubrette, Travers, the burlesque artist; May Robson, Beattie and Edwards, Arnold, the wonderful hand balancer and others. Every evening there will be a free exhibition in front of the theatre, from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m., of stereoscopic views of the launching, career and heroes of the United States battleship "Maine," actual and realistic photographs of the ship in Havana harbor, her daily routine, her crew, her drills, her destruction and the work upon the wreck. Also other interesting and timely views.
